

CELIA MOH

for Furniture Studies and Interior Design Majors Department of Technology

As a tribute to his wife Celia, Laurence Moh, a leader in home furnishings and successful furniture entrepreneur, established a foundation in 2001 to award those students excelling in furniture studies or interior design. The scholarship's purpose is to recognize and nurture the academic endeavors of preeminent college students enrolled full-time in fields of study that would logically lead to careers in the home furnishings industry. This scholarship is especially important to recipients since it pays for all expenses for the school year — tuition, fees, room and board, and books.

The Celia Moh Scholarship is available to full time (12 semester hours) rising Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors majoring in Furniture Studies and Interior Design with a minimum GPA of 3.0.

Special Process: Although you will apply through the ASU Department of Technology first, the final decision is made by the Moh Foundation. The top candidates are chosen through the Department of Technology, Appalachian State University, and then forwarded on to the Moh Foundation. The Moh Foundation then chooses the recipients from around the country.

Applications are available from the Technology Department contact person, and have an earlier deadline than other scholarships (usually in February). In addition to the application, you are required to submit a

- 500-750-word typed essay
- Two letters of recommendation from your college instructors completed on the Celia Moh Recommendation Forms
- Official transcript from the Registrar's Office.

This is a very competitive and prestigious national scholarship, and students who apply for it need to be prepared to make a superlative case for receiving the scholarship. If awarded, you receive it for the remainder of your schooling (provided you stay in compliance with the requirements for application). Contact—

Dr. John R. Craft
Scholarship Committee Chair

Department of Technology
Appalachian State University
Boone, NC 28608
828.262.6362
email: craftjr@appstate.edu